As we announced earlier this year, craft employees will receive $300 for timely compliance with the federal government's vaccination mandate. The government's guidance as to timing has changed since the original announcement, so we are clarifying the timing of when our craft employees will receive $300.

Craft employees who have uploaded all required documentation in SuccessFactors showing that they have received the final dose of the approved vaccine regimen or those who have an approved medical or religious accommodation by December 8, 2021, will receive their $300 payment by the end of 2021.

The remainder of employees have until January 18, 2022, to comply and will receive a $300 payment after that date. Employees who have submitted a medical or religious accommodation request by January 18, 2022, and the request remains outstanding after that date, remain eligible for a $300 payment if the request is approved. Employees who do not upload their vaccination information or submit a timely request for an accommodation by January 18, 2022, are not eligible to receive this payment. Only one payment will be provided per eligible employee.

Management employees who qualify will receive their ½ day vacation in 2022.
